

A history of hand crafted quality workmanship

Alvin Kuepfer, the creator of Masonal Stone, started 25 years ago with a belief that people still admire the artisan skills of masonry and the beauty of natural stones for modern building. Growing up surrounded by skilled Mennonite artisans he quick honed his art craft, grew his own business, and started cutting natural stone to enhance his intricate projects. The fabrication shop now produces some of the most complex stone accessories in the building industry. From precast refractories, carved de-tail edging stone columns, popular thin natural stone veneer products, and now a host of premade outdoor landscape pieces. For people who love the feel and beauty of real stone and don't have masons available to create them, Masonal's Ready to Deliver products are right for you.
